

The Sound Garden: The sculpture from which the late, lamented band visits: be cool. Official policy on theatre has no performances. The live shows or theatre short, and still hosts The Moore: Where the "Even Flow" video was shot, and still hosts the "Hunger Strike" video most nights.

Discovery Park: Where the "Hunger Strike" video was shot. If you go, a car is recommended (buses do run there), but you have to walk really far from the bus stop, and NOT in the lot near the main entrance. Walk out to the cliffs for fabulous views of the Olympic Mountains. Walk down to the beach if you want to see the lighthouse shown at the end of the video.

The Moore: Where the "Even Flow" video was shot, and still hosts the "Hunger Strike" video most nights.

Full Temple of the Dog shows took place. Music RKKNY, this is where PJ played their first gig (as Mookie Blaylock) and also where the only official, now defunct corner from the Eastlake Ave. E. (now known as The Off Ramp) related sights:

Other music-related sights: The Off Ramp (now known as Eastlake Ave. E.) Right around the corner from the Mookie Blaylock) and also where the only official, now defunct corner from the Eastlake Ave. E. (now known as The Off Ramp) related sights:

derived its name is located adjacent to Magnuson Park, on the NOAA grounds. Get on I-5 north, get off on 45th St., and follow it around until it becomes Sand Point Way; keep going until you get to the light at Magnuson Park. You can drive in, turn to the left, and then right until you reach a parking lot; climb over the hill and you'll see it in the distance. Or go in through the NOAA grounds (first right after the park entrance on Sand Point Way). Just keep bearing to the right and you'll end up right next to it.

Experience Music Project: Paul Allen's effort to create a rock and roll museum in Seattle, within the shadow of the Space Needle; the building, designed by architect Frank Gehry, is notable in and of itself. The EMP is truly an incredible collection of rock and roll memorabilia from all eras. You could spend five hours and not see it all. However, their Pearl Jam collection is woefully inadequate

Monday, October 22, 2001
Groundwork 2001 Seattle

Key Arena - 1st Avenue N and N Harrison St featuring Femi Kuti & the Positive Force, Mana, Alanis Morissette, Pearl Jam, R.E.M. (206) 684-7200 Info ONLY Capacity: 17,000 / Indoor
On the grounds of the Seattle Center - developed for the 1962 World's Fair - the Sonics play here.

From I-5: Take Mercer St. exit & go right at light. Go left at next light onto Valley and follow into Broad. Take right on Denny then right on 1st Ave.

Don't forget your tickets!!!!

copyright © 2001 Five Horizons all rights reserved
www.fivehorizons.com

with Key Arena seating and info on Groundwork Benefit Show

"a compliment for us is a compliment for you"

five horizons: a pearl jam fanzine

Jim Hendrix' grave: Not even in Seattle! Proper, aspiring Cliff Poncier wannabes can find this sight in Park in the lovely suburb of Renton.

Album cover - shot in the park n Pioneer Square You won't find the bench - it was a plant for the photo shoot. (And don't go there at night, or on your own: it is kinda dangerous, even in daytime.)
The apartment building: Corner of 19th and Thomas on Capitol Hill. Take the #43 bus from downtown; it stops right in front. Please remember that real people live there and respect their privacy. Gas Works Park: At the north edge of Lake Union, best known for the location of an aborted free PJ concert. It is a very cool place and offers wonderful views of downtown, but you do need a car to get there.

Singles locations - shot in the park n Pioneer Square You won't find the bench - it was a plant for the photo shoot. (And don't go there at night, or on your own: it is kinda dangerous, even in daytime.)
The apartment building: Corner of 19th and Thomas on Capitol Hill. Take the #43 bus from downtown; it stops right in front. Please remember that real people live there and respect their privacy. Gas Works Park: At the north edge of Lake Union, best known for the location of an aborted free PJ concert. It is a very cool place and offers wonderful views of downtown, but you do need a car to get there.

All of the clubs above have good and reasonably-priced food, and there are bargains as well as great culinary adventures to be had around town. On the cheap, Taco Del Mar and various teriyaki places are your friends. There are supermarkets on Capitol Hill, in the Udistric, and on lower Queen Anne if you are a do-it-yourself type. We would be remiss without mentioning The Garage, the restaurant/pool hall owned by Mike, PJ manager Kelly Curtis, and others. It is a VERY cool place to hang out at, but don't go there expecting to see Mike sitting at the bar. Location of the yearly JAMPAC Celebrity Pool Tournament.

Food
Favorite place in Seattle, and one of the Avenue (2nd & Blanchard): Our second The Crocodile Cafe, 2200 Second with a fake ID. Legal drinking age in Washington is 21. Do not try to get into a club in Seattle In snag The Stranger, which you can pick up in most places around the city. You may get a ticket. Weather: it could be 90 degrees, sunny and clear. It could be 50 degrees, cold and rainy. Pack accordingly and do bring rain gear.

Clubs
Snag The Stranger, which you can pick up in most places around the city. You may get a ticket. Weather: it could be 90 degrees, sunny and clear. It could be 50 degrees, cold and rainy. Pack accordingly and do bring rain gear.

Clubs
Snag The Stranger, which you can pick up in most places around the city. You may get a ticket. Weather: it could be 90 degrees, sunny and clear. It could be 50 degrees, cold and rainy. Pack accordingly and do bring rain gear.

Most of downtown Seattle, from the International District (near Safeco Field) to almost Seattle Center, is in what Metro calls "the free ride zone", meaning you can hop on a bus and ride for free. Parking sucks downtown: there isn't much and it's expensive. Don't jaywalk. You may get a ticket. Weather: it could be 90 degrees, sunny and clear. It could be 50 degrees, cold and rainy. Pack accordingly and do bring rain gear.

First things first: get a good city map. Most of downtown Seattle, from the International District (near Safeco Field) to almost Seattle Center, is in what Metro calls "the free ride zone", meaning you can hop on a bus and ride for free. Parking sucks downtown: there isn't much and it's expensive. Don't jaywalk. You may get a ticket. Weather: it could be 90 degrees, sunny and clear. It could be 50 degrees, cold and rainy. Pack accordingly and do bring rain gear.